POWER DESIGN AND ARCO NATIONAL CONSTRUCTION RECEIVES AWARD FOR OUTSTANDING CONSTRUCTION OF MOLINA HEALTHCARE'S INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY CENTER

Indianapolis, ID – October 22, 2009 – The Associated Builders and Contractors of Indiana recently recognized Power Design, LLC and ARCO National Construction Co, Inc. with an “Award of Excellence” in the Commercial Electrical category for its construction of Molina Healthcare, Inc.’s new Information Technology Center in Albuquerque, New Mexico.

The 26,170 square-foot Molina Healthcare IT Center, which is now open, was built to house all of the company’s data functions, including 1,000 servers. Molina Healthcare also recently raised its certification goal from silver to gold in the U.S. Green Building Council’s Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design program.

“We are proud of the phenomenal work Power Design and ARCO National Construction did on our brand new IT Center,” said Salvador Gutierrez, director of facilities. “Their innovative design of the electrical infrastructure allowed us to relocate and expand our company’s IT operations as needed.”

The Associated Builders and Contractors of Indiana’s Construction Awards program is designed to publicly recognize the highest quality and innovation of merit shop construction and showcase the safety, efficiency, and quality products that Merit Shop contractors provide. By doing this, ABC calls attention to the ‘best of the best’ and continues to raise standards throughout the construction industry.

“ABC is proud to acknowledge Power Design and ARCO National Construction for demonstrating the highest degree of constructability on Molina Healthcare’s award-winning project,” said an ABC spokesperson. “We congratulate both contractors and all of the talented employees who contributed to the outstanding results of the Molina Healthcare IT Center.”
